Two regiments of French huzzars and a body of Urlaners, German troops, commonly simed with lances, met on the frontier. The French lumediately made preparations to receive an attack. At length one of the Urlaners came forward. The French allowed him to approach, reparting, him as a desarter or expecting a party. On coming near the Urlaner fired at the commander of the French, but missed his mark and turned and fied amid a shower of bullets.

To the writer, a native Kentuckinn, attached to the laws and institutions of this Commonwealth, yet fully reoccuring and respecting the supervalent and paramont accretise of all its delegrated powers, the proposition that our people should springly expected the translation of the federal Government, without questioning their validity or professing against their injustice, seems to be unwise, unpatroite, and humilisting.

commodations and amissements regulated by law.

We would regard the task as difficult, under any circumstances, to defend the policy or propriety of a species of class legislation by Congress, which, diaregarding fundamental barriers between the Federal and State Governmente, involves inot an usurpation Governmente, involves inot an usurpation size intermedding in the municipal affairs and police regulations of particular States, established by themselves for their own self-government. On the ground of public policy alone this anomaious and extraordinary intervention of Congress is liable to other grave objections. Not in the late siaveholding States only have the African race been recognized, even when free, as "essentially a degraded caste of inferior rank and condition," but long after their emancipation in most of the Northern State they were proceribed by the constitutions and are capable of soligorerament. But if the cuttain right of both races to the protection of the laws in their lives, liberties and pursuit of happitees be conceded, and that to assure these to use colored man his right to vote is now to be oceaned 'ma accomplished fact," which ought not to be called in question, and that, by cultivation and tha Influences of the white race, he may, under God's providence, I rove huncelf capable of carceilang the Imperiance of the white race, he may, under God's providence, I rove huncelf capable of carceilang the Imperiance of the white races and ample reasons still existing for all our legal and social discriminations between the races.

That the white men, whose toil and energy, and the valor and labor, and serrifices of their spectors, have mainly made this noble Commonwealth, should be preferred as officers and seguits to administe the laws, is not unreasonable nor unjust. Nor is it strange that, not whilstanding the threes of revolution and changes of States, they still, true to their just pride of character and race, aftere to a classic recognized as right and samelioned by law. Far better is it for both races that these distinctions should be preserved. Nature has marked them each as a separate and distinct people. That each may prosper in their sphere, and there may 'be no strife' between them, let them, so far as practicable and consistent with the rights of seach others, go, like the herdsamen of old, by separate ways. Let the white people have their sphere for the purpose of education, public accommodation, under the propose of the string and it may be hoped that, as the passions and projudices of the times, produced by a war of sections and race, shall cease, the great misses of society will recursite themselves, a experience shall prove to be best for the welfare of all.

But if, by unificating Congressional legislation, designed to compet the white to admit the equality of the black race, a system of State laws and institutions, erected by the people themselves, or

The Radicals have simply changed the forms of negro slavery. In other days the negro was required by his old master to do a certain amount of work, for which he was well paid. Now he is required by his new master to do a certain amount of work for which he is not paid at all. The Yankees always were the hardest over-seers, and as Radicalism is a Yankee im-portation it is not strange that it is the

The Commercial is mistaken in saying that we are bidding for the negro vote. We are merely exposing the hollowness of its bids. We bid for no man's vote. Every man must do his own voting and ought to do it without the bidding of any one. It is our duty to place facts before the mass of voters of every class, white and black,

It will be understood that we have not raised the old Know-Nothing issue out of its grave to fright the souls of our adver-saries. They dug it up themselves. As an electioneering trump the visit of the pions haven did the Radicals (by their own mismanagement) more harm than good. From the plundered State of Louisians, they have now brought here several negro legislators and lobbysts covered all over with gold and lewelry, to show the Kentucky negroes how profitable it is, in some places, to shandon every honest calling and betake themselves to Radical polities for a livelihood. We assure the colored folks that if they flush any plunder in this State the while Radicals will bag it all. "Down, charge," is the command given to the negro in every nominating convention. Our information is that in all the Southern States the agrees are quitting the sinking ship of Radicalism. They have discovered that Radicalism is a mere trick to catch votes, and that it doesn't pay. It is merely a game of "you"ll walk and I'll ride, and then I'll ride and you'll walk. The negroes prefer honesty without promises to mere promises without pay. Old master is, after all, a sure hope than the swarm of pushing, striving, assempulous, greedy, selfash and cold-blooded office-seekers, who want to get as many votes as possible for the smallest quantity of whisky and the greatest amount of talk. And yet, after all, one is led to wonder why such zealous and patriotic Demo-crats as they claim to be should devote all crast as they claim to be should devote all of their energies to the business of assailing factiously and pertinaciously, though ineffectually, a Democratic organ, which is read, quoted and respected in every part of the Union, and which stands to-day side by side with all the recognized organs of the National Democracy on the broad and liberal platform laid down by the Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Congress.

They can have but one purpose, if they have any purpose at all, and that is the es-tablishment of a third party of their own, confined to the limits of Kentucky, and confined to the limits of Kentyoky, and acting outside of the National Democratic organisation. If this is not their purpose, why do they refuse to meet us half way, or at least agree to disagree with us on minor matters? We have treated them with all kindness and courtery. We have crined every possible desire for peace and harmony. We have, from first to last, sought to compose our domestic troubles in the most conciliatory manner. How has this fair and candid, old-fashioned, magnanimous Democratic spirit been met magnanimous Democratic spirit been met en their part? By hasty and angry ebuli-tions of temper, by harsh and unnatural constructions, by violent and tortured inconstructions, by violent and fortured in-terpretations, by open and eager hostility. It does not seem to occur to these critics of ours that possibly we may have, from our wider outlook, some advantages for observing the political situation, and their observing the political situation, and their determination in advance not to credit us with the smallest part of their confidence, indicates a temper at once unfair, illiberal and dogmatic. Our opinions on all subjects are well known. Whatever we think we say, plamly and blundy. There is no room to misconceive us. We leave nothing unsaid or obscure. But our critics have from the first pretended a distrust which has not been justified by any cause, unless it sprang from a prescriptive and unauthorized ill will.

Assuredly we make no complaint whatedly we make no complaint what-Assuredly we make no complaint whatever. We are totally indifferent to censure where we feel it to be undeserved, and experience has taught us to dread it never. We have sought no controversy. We have assailed no newspaper. Teples have arisen, and are constantly arising, which need to be discussed, and we are in the habit of discussing them without stitt. The point we make, and which we wish to call to the attention of the intelligence of the Demo-cratic party, is this, this all our efforts to ar-rive at Democratic unity and truth are med on the part of the three or four of the crit-ics to whom we relay, with denumenations the most unfriendly, and that this is in itclf as unwise in a party sense as it is unself as unwise in a party schee as it is un-just in every other sense. It does us no practical hurt; nor does it turn us one hair's line from the plain, straight-forward path of duty which the before us. Indeed as we are used to taking all sorts of whacks in good humor, we are not at all excited by it. We feel about it much as a is-by it. We feel about it much as a inmous great man said he felt when his wile beat him—"it don't do me no harm, and it seems to do her a powerful sight of good." It our assallants like it, and it it their souls, why, just let them whack away as lively as they will, and the stouter the merrier. But, for heaven's sake, let them not solace themselves by the thought that they are deceiving anybody with such sham specimens of Democratic zeal. The essence of Democratic zeal. The sham specimens of Democratic zeal. The casence of Democracy, as opposed to the witch-burning spirit of Puritantsm and the proscriptive tendencies of Radicalism, is tolerance, tolerance to all men, tolerance to one other. Tests are undemocratic, and they who would not only raise up tests where none exist, but assume the violation of tests which have not even been raised up, are certainly not the most prudent custodians of Demogratic Interest at a time when the consolidation of the entire conservation of the country against the Republicans is indispensable to Democratic success. When such zealots are honest, they are indiscreet, and when they are angered they are simply putting their private grief before the good putting their private grief before the good of their party.

We stand squarely on the platform on which the Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress propose to fight the fall campaign. We would not alter a line of it, or a word of it, or a syllable of it. We have nothing to offer beyond it or above it. It is the embodiment of all that we have counseled within the last eighteen months and it suits us exactly. It is at once enlightened and liberal and well-expressed. We stand on it. We swear by it. We invite all men, Democrats and Conservatives allies, to come and stand by it. We invite all men, Democrats and Conservatives affice, to come and stand with us, and by its grace, which is the grace of peace, and by the grace of Goo, which the scekers for peace invoke most humbly, we expect to wreat the Government—in part, at least—from the hands of the desperate men who possess it, and ultimately to restore it on a basis broad enough to hold every patriot in the land, without regard to the antecedents of any one.

They mislead him thus by presching and promising equality, but they do not practice it. They nominate any old slave patrol over the most respectable and intelligent colored man in the land, and when United States Senator Rayaus comes here with his Northern laurels fresh upon him, they give him the cut direct. they give him the cut direct.

But no political hostiliraccounts for the treatment extended by hite Radicals to REVELS. Nothing can spirit of race prejudice" and nothing clse.

The same feeling accounts for their nominations and will control them until the negroes take the party reins in their own hands. Democrats do not nominate Radicals of any hue, but if they relied on the leads of any har, but I would, as the Rad-leads do, they certainly would, for very the me, nominate a black man occasionally.

A Peaceful Election. Kentucky. The two head centers of Kentucky. Radicalism, Hon. W. H. Wansworth and Hon. W. C. The same political coteri craite voters. The same political coteries responsible for all those personal wrongs and military interferences at elections which practically disfranchised the people of Kentucky during the entire war. If we should now retailable and inflict similar wrongs upon the humble and irresponsible followers of this clique, such an sponsible follower the Bemocratic party to their level and make it a sharer of that disgrace which dooms them forever as po-litical leaders in Kentucky. Conscience makes them anticipate violence, because they know what they have done and what they would do name if they had the powthey would do again if they had the pow-er; but we hope and trust that they will remain sole possessors of that fatal reputation which adheres forever, like the stains of murder, to those who appeal to brute force and cannot trust their political aspirations to a free election. Dem perats know how hateful such paris tactics are. We enjoy now the prestige and the power which such oppression sooner or later confers upon its victims, and we can neither afford to lose it nor share it with Radicals. The feeling of the Democratic masses on this subject is per-fectly safe and reliable. There is not even a close election with its attendant excite ments and accidental outbreaks to cause any apprehension of violence. But the eagerness of the opposite party to profit by something of that sort should make our friends take every precaution to prevent any occurrence which may expose our people to blame when they do not share the guilt. In this as in many other States there are lawless organizations in-some localities that do not hesitate in the prosecution of their private quarrels to bring any disgrace upon our civil admin-istration. These have slain more white men and Democrate than negroes, but if,
